

Working Members.

From the reports of the proceedings of the Legislature, the Gazette is impressed with the idea that the present one, in one respect at least, excels most of its predecessors. It appears to have a larger proportion of working members, men who seem to realize that they were sent to the capitol for a purpose outside of drawing their pay and having a good time. A large proportion of the members of former Legislatures were nominated and elected for geographical, political, or almost any reason, except their fitness to make laws for the government of the State. Such dummies regarded the session a sixty days' picnic for them at the expense of the State, and legislative business bothered them no more than the price of cord wood in Alaska. They generally voted as the lobbyists told them, and for that reason their stupidity and indifference made them as dangerous as though they were absolutely corrupt. There appears to be a smaller proportion of that class than usual in this Legislature, and it is to be hoped that the number will continue to decrease until it has no representatives in the chambers of the State Capitol. —Gazette.

Repeal or Enact.

The legislature should either repeal the law making the Secretary of State Superintendent of the State Printing office, or it should enact another making Controller Bob Horton or Attorney-General Jim Torreyson ex-officio matron of the Orphans' Home. It should be no more ridiculous than placing an official who doesn't know the hell box from an italic hair space, in charge of the State printery. —Gazette.

When Assemblyman Price of California died not long ago the Legislature was seized with a sudden desire to show some respect to his memory and therefore by a unanimous vote decided to knock off work for 24 hours, while they pocketed $2,000 pay, for which they returned the State no service. Had they continued in session and donated that $2,000 to the widow they would have been showing to the world that they substantially instead of theoretically respected Price's memory.

A Terrible Crime.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., February 6. — The people of upper Pittston, a small place near here, are greatly excited over the poisoning of James Sullivan and Martin Kearns by some Poles living in this place. A Polish wedding took place yesterday and the men went to the house where the festivities were being held. They had not been invited, and when they went in the Poles became excited and wanted to put them out. Finally, after considerable hard talk, the men were allowed to stay and were offered some beer.

The visitors drank two or three glasses and noticed a peculiar taste about it, but did not suspect anything wrong. They left the house shortly after, Sullivan going one way and Kearns another. Kearns soon became very sick, but managed to reach his hotel, and there fell into convulsions. A physician, after two hours' hard work, brought him around.

Then he told his story, and as for Sullivan he not having turned up a searching party was sent after him. His dead body was found on the railroad track, terribly mangled. The police say that a Pole whom they have been after in the vicinity of the wedding party, and his friends, thinking Sullivan and Kearns were detectives in search of him, poisoned them so that the criminal could escape. It is believed that they followed up Sullivan, murdered him and threw his body on the railroad track, where it was run over by the train. An investigation is being made.

Another Populist Victory.

Lincoln, Neb. Feb. 7. — William V. Allen, Populist, was elected United States Senator on joint ballot at noon receiving 70 votes to 57 for Paddock. The Independents and Democrats voted for Allen. His election was made unanimous.
